SPORTING NEWS.

DOWN ROYAL MEETING—YESTERDAY.

A BIG SUCCESS.

The second day's proceedings were even more interesting than Wednesday's, and what with strong fields and interesting racing, visitors had every reason to be satisfied with the fare provided. There was another excellent attendance, the fine weather being a factor in this respect, and, regarded from every point of view, last year's meeting has proved the most successful held at the Maze for a considerable period. There was much more animation than usual, and the tone of the sport higher, and the fixture would seem to have taken a new lease of life.

Homildon and Transcendence, both of whom were seen in winning vein at the recent Ladytown Strand meeting, were both liked of those who contested the Lisburn Plate, but neither ever flattered, and Miss Slasher brought off a 5 to 2 chance for Maddenstown Lodge's game stable, who also had the fore in the Belfast Plate, in which Rockbellew, who had run well at Clonmel, showed a glimpse of his old form, and, striding out in fine style, he had taken the measure of the others a long way from the end. Kilnaray carried his Ladbroke penalty prominently, but the well-backed Good Company cut up in disappointing fashion, and Leddiston destroyed all his prospects by a slow beginning.

It is a very long time since seventeen runners faced the start for a race at this venue, and naturally there was a good deal of crowding at the starts for the Fixing Plate, as the course is a narrow one, but, as at Baldoyle on Monday, Mediator was very quick off the mark and, making light of the 14lb. extra which he was in receipt of at the Mid-Ulster meeting, he won with plenty in hand. He has certainly proved a great bargain at the 80 guineas for which he was purchased after scoring at the Curragh in June. In the Purdysburn Plate, Loughbrickland made short work of the opposition, and was quickly made amends to his connections for the disappointment incidental to his being left at the post at Baldoyle. There being nothing forthcoming to oppose him, Mawaca was indulged with a walk-over for the King's Plate, and the odds laid on Vindicator for the Corinthian Plate were landed with consummate ease. Details:—

1.50—THE LISBURN PLATE of 50 sovs. A weight for age flat race. One mile and a half.

Mr. J. Parkinson's b. f. HOMILDON, by William Rufus—Diamond Cut Diamond, 5, 8-9 ..... H. Beasley 1

Capt. Hyndecoate's HOMILDON, 5, 10-5 ..... T. Burns 2

Mr. R. Courtney's DONOR'S GREEN, 5, 9-9 (Connolly) ran—Mr. R. I. Calwell's Aller, 5, 9-9 (C. Ayliff); Mr. T.Byrne's Transcendence, 5, 9-7 (J. Rosker); Mr. Rickford's Old Sovereign, 5, 9-5 (T. Donnelly); Mr. J. F. Lowry's Ingenue, 5, 8-9 (F. Cheshire.) (Winner trained by Owner at Maddenstown Lodge, Curragh).

Betting—2 to 1 each agst. Homildon and Transcendence, 5 to 2 MISS SLASHER, 6 to 1 Aller, 20 to 1 Donor's Green or any other.

Aller cut out the work from Donor's Green and Homildon, with Transcendence last, for a mile, when Donor's Green took up the running, but a shade further on Homildon and Miss Slasher drew to the head of affairs, and the last-named, taking command a quarter of a mile from home, won in a canter by four lengths; fifteen lengths divided second and third. Aller was fourth, Transcendence fifth, and Ingenue next.

2.30—THE BELFAST PLATE of 100 sovs. A handicap flat race. Seven furlongs and eighty yards.

Mr. J. H. Markey's blk. h. ROCKBELLEW, by Aquascutum—Signora, 5, 8-5..... H. Beasley 1

Mr. J. Nugent's KILNORACY (14th, car. 7-13) ..... T. Williams 2

Lord Lonsdale's ALFANA, 4, 7-11 (car. 7-12) ..... Owner 3

Also ran:—Mr. R. Croker's Herculaneum, 4, 9-1 (M. Beary); Mr. G. Formby's Father Creeper, 6, 8-13 (T. Burns); Mr. Mitchell's Leddiston, 6, 8-0 (T. Joseph Hartt); Mr. Henry's Good Company, 3, 7-0 (J. Dinan); Mr. Courtney's Enchanted Palace (car. 6-11), Mr. Bewley's Sheriff, 5, 6-5 (car. 6-3) (A. Dardis). (Winner trained by Mr. J. J. Parkinson at Maddenstown Lodge, Curragh).

Betting—7 to 2 each agst. Good Company and Kilnoracy, 4 to 1 Father Creeper, 6 to 1 each ROCKBELLEW, Herculaneum, and Leddiston; 20 to 1 Alfana or any other.

Leddiston lost ground at the start, and Rockbellew carried on the running from Alfana, Shanlair, Father Creeper, Good Company, and Herculaneum, with Kilnoracy bringing up the rear. Into the fore in the Belfast Plate, in which Rockbellew, who had run well at Clonmel, showed a glimpse of his old form, and, striding out in fine style, he had taken the measure of the others a long way from the end. Kilnoracy carried his Ladbroke penalty prominently, but the well-backed Good Company cut up in disappointing fashion, and Leddiston destroyed all his prospects by a slow beginning.

3.0—THE FLYING PLATE of 100 sovs. A selling handicap. The winner to be sold for 500 sovs. Five furlongs.

Mr. C. E. Hawkins' b. h. MEDIATOR, by Matchmaker—Maisie (14lb. ex.), a, 10-3 ..... F. Hunter 1

Mr. Trench's FEODOROVNA, 3, 7-0 ..... J. Dines 2

Mr. Jamison Davis' AMONTILLADO, 5, 10-0 ..... T. Burns 3

Also ran:—Mr. H. Spalding's Brookfield, 5, 8-9 (Col. Wilkinson); Mr. Bewley's Better Days, 5, 8-9 (W. Barrett); Mr. J. Hendry's Gold Vein, 5, 8-5 (R. Crisp); Mr. W. H. Smith's Silver Comet, 5, 8-5 (H. Beasley); Mr. Mitchell's Dimorphodon, 4, 7-12 (G. Formby); Mr. R. Johnson's Mighty Quick, 4, 7-12 (B. Higgs); Mr. Hutton's Acolian Harp, 3, 7-9 (Joseph Hartt); Mr. Parkinson's Sachet, 7-4 (M. Quirke); Mr. W. A. Wallis' Gallipoli, 5, 7-4 (J. Lynch); Mr. Wm. Wyllie's The Squire, 3, 6-12 (G. Mirfin); Mr. Jos. Whelan's Five More, 3, 6-12 (A. Dardis); Mr. C. H. Bruce's Bronte, 3, 6-12 (T. Burns); Mr. P. Clarke's Luke's Girl, 3, 6-9 (car. 7-1) (J. Sinnott); Mr. T. Dickson's Ardchamp, 3, 6-12 (J. Tatman). (Winner trained by J. Doyle at Rossmore Lodge, Curragh).

Betting—5 to 1 each agst. Silver Comet, The Squire, and Gold Vein; 6 to 1 each MEDIATOR and Amontillado, 10 to 1 each Sachet and Gallipoli, 20 to 1 each Brookfield, Better Days, Dimorphodon, Mighty Quick, Acolian Harp, Bronte, and Mediator, 25 to 1 The Squire, Sachet, and Gallipoli, with Silver Comet and Feodorovna to the head of the others, and Mediator, coming to the front before the distance, won easily by a length; half a length between second and third. The Squire was fourth, Gallipoli fifth, Sachet sixth, and Gold Vein seventh. Aolian Harp eighth, and Bronte ninth.

Brookfield, Amontillado, Luke's Girl, and Ardeneo were saddled at the post.

3.30—THE PURDYSBURN HANDICAP of 150 sovs. A handicap. For two years old. Five furlongs.

Mr. T. Griffin's b. f. LOUGHBROWN, by Ercildoun—Kilnew, 8-13 ..... M. Carr 1

Earls Mor—Kilnew, 8-13 ..... M. Carr 2

Mr. R. Croker's EVER ON, 8-0 ..... H. Beasley 3

Mr. J. Nugent's LADY KILDA, 7-10 ..... T. Burns 4

Also ran:—Mr. J. Parkinson's Ingenious, 8-6 (T. Joseph Hartt); Mr. Henry's Good Company, 3, 7-0 (J. Dinan); Mr. Courtney's Enchanted Palace (car. 6-11), Mr. Bewley's Sheriff, 5, 6-5 (car. 6-3) (A. Dardis). (Winner trained by Mr. J. J. Parkinson at Maddenstown Lodge, Curragh).

Betting—7 to 2 each agst. Good Company and Kilnoracy, 4 to 1 Father Creeper, 6 to 1 each ROCKBELLEW, Herculaneum, and Leddiston; 20 to 1 Alfana or any other.

Leddiston lost ground at the start, and Rockbellew carried on the running from Alfana, Shanlair, Father Creeper, Good Company, and Herculaneum, with Kilnoracy bringing up the rear. Also ran:—Mr. R. Croker's Herculaneum, 4, 9-1 (M. Beary); Mr. G. Formby's Father Creeper, 6, 8-0 (T. Burns); Mr. Mitchell's Leddiston, 6, 8-0 (T. Joseph Hartt); Mr. Henry's Good Company, 3, 7-0 (J. Dinan); Mr. Courtney's Enchanted Palace (car. 6-11), Mr. Bewley's Sheriff, 5, 6-5 (car. 6-3) (A. Dardis). (Winner trained by Mr. J. J. Parkinson at Maddenstown Lodge, Curragh).

Betting—7 to 2 each agst. Good Company and Kilnoracy, 4 to 1 Father Creeper, 6 to 1 each ROCKBELLEW, Herculaneum, and Leddiston; 20 to 1 Alfana or any other.

Leddiston lost ground at the start, and Rockbellew carried on the running from Alfana, Shanlair, Father Creeper, Good Company, and Herculaneum, with Kilnoracy bringing up the rear. Into the fore in the Belfast Plate, in which Rockbellew, who had run well at Clonmel, showed a glimpse of his old form, and, striding out in fine style, he had taken the measure of the others a long way from the end. Kilnoracy carried his Ladbroke penalty prominently, but the well-backed Good Company cut up in disappointing fashion, and Leddiston destroyed all his prospects by a slow beginning.

It is a very long time since seventeen runners faced the start for a race at this venue, and naturally there was a good deal of crowding at the starts for the Fixing Plate, as the course is a narrow one, but, as at Baldoyle on Monday, Mediator was very quick off the mark and, making light of the 14lb. extra which he was in receipt of at the Mid-Ulster meeting, he won with plenty in hand. He has certainly proved a great bargain at the 80 guineas for which he was purchased after scoring at the Curragh in June. In the Purdysburn Plate, Loughbrickland made short work of the opposition, and was quickly made amends to his connections for the disappointment incidental to his being left at the post at Baldoyle. There being nothing forthcoming to oppose him, Mawaca was indulged with a walk-over for the King's Plate, and the odds laid on Vindicator for the Corinthian Plate were landed with consummate ease. Details:—

2.0—SEASIDE PLATE of 50 sovs. A steeplechase. Three quarters of a mile.

(Winner trained by Mr. R. G. Cleary at Streamstown, Mullingar).

Betting—5 to 4 on ROYAL SPINNER, 2 to 1 Lady Sue, 5 to 1 Rosemary.

Royal Spinner took command, and came home, when lengths.

An objection for crossing and foul riding was over-ruled and the £5 deposit forfeited.

2.45—MILTOWN-MALBAY PLATE of 50 sovs. An open weight for age hurdle race. One mile and a half.

Mr. J. W. Widger's ch. g. ULSTER MAN, by Aquascutum—Kilrobbin Maid, 4, 10-7 ..... Mr. W. J. Parkinson, Lady Sue led until half a mile from home, when Ulster Man settled down to his work, and won in a canter by four lengths.

3.45—ARMADA PLATE of 25 sovs. A weight for age steeplechase. Two miles.

Mr. R. L. Lloyd's ch. m. DOLLY BRAY, by Brayhead, dam by Glenvarnon—Spider, 6, 11-5 ..... M. Houlihan w.o.

(Winner trained by R. Ross, at Faha, Patrickswell).

4.15—SPANISH POINT PLATE of 25 sovs. A weight for age flat race. One mile and a half.

Mr. J. J. Parkinson's b. f. ON THE ROCKS, by Brettenham—Crazy Jane, 3, 10-0 ..... Mr. W. J. Parkinson 1

Mr. J. Coghlan's EILEEN AROON, 5, 10-12 ..... Owner 2

Mr. J. Hogan's GOOD PROFIT, 3, 10-5 ..... A. Hogan 3

Also ran—Capt. Delmege's Erato, 3, 10-5 (J. Burns). (Winner trained by Owner, at Maddenstown Lodge, Curragh.)

Betting—3 to 1 on ON THE ROCKS, 8 to 1 agst. Eileen Aroon, 100 to 8 each Good Profit and Erato.

Eileen Aroon made play from Good Profit, Erato, and On the Rocks, till half a mile from home, when the favourite became second, and, taking command in the straight, won in a canter by twenty lengths; a bad third.

4.45—STEWARDS' PLATE of 25 sovs. A weight for age steeplechase. Two miles.

Mr. P. Honner's br. m. SONG O' THE SEA, by Orlando—Song o' the Wood, 5, 11-8 ..... H. Hartly 1

Mr. J. O'Neill's CAHERNARRY, 5, 11-5 ..... H. Houlihan 2

Mr. J. O'Dwyer's LADY STERLING, 5, 11-5 ..... H. Hogan 3

(Winner trained by Mr. R. G. Cleary, at Streamstown, Mullingar).

Betting—Evens SONG O' THE SEA, 2 to 1 agst. Cahernarry, 3 to 1 Lady Sterling.

Song o' the Sea made the running to the last fence, where Cahernarry challenged, but the favourite held her own, to win by a head; four lengths separated second and third.

CHANTICLEER'S NOTES.

(SPECIAL TELEGRAM.)

NEWBURY, THURSDAY NIGHT.

The prospect of hard going at Newbury this week in the absence of rain is detrimental, first upon the size of the fields, if the reports from training quarters to-night can be relied upon, and in such case the racing will be first-rate. The prospects of a race between Canyon and Harry On for the Newbury Stakes will occasion a deal of interest, as we have yet to learn the exact position of the Beckhampton colt in the classic scale. Hurry On has 4lb. the better of it on the weight for age scale, but I must give preference to in this instance. My selections for the minor races are:—

Ilsley Plate—Swan Song, in the absence of Lord Annandale.

Manton Handicap—Sprint.

Beckhampton Handicap—Jack Annandale.

Donnington Castle Stakes—Scotch Broth; if absent, Riven.

Whatcombe Handicap—Bird's Nest or Winnaretta.

Chanticleer.

SCRATCHING.—Newbury Cup—Dark Opal, at 9 a.m. yesterday.

SPORTING PARAGRAPHS.

Mr. James Nugent has sold Newmark (4 yrs.) by Wavelet's Pride—Sancta to Mr. H. Usher.

Dark Opal was taken out of the Newbury Cup at 9 a.m. yesterday.

The added money given by the Australian Jockey Club during the last season works out as follows:—1913, £25,750; 1914, £26,000; 1915, £26,000; 1916, £24,040.

In our report of Wednesday's racing at Down Royal, for Sancta Peake, 3 yrs., read Sancta Bearry) should have been included in the runners for the Tureen Cup.

Mr. David Gallagher, captain of the famous "All Blacks," has enlisted in the New Zealand forces. He is now forty years of age. Gallagher was the much-discussed wing forward of the team. He was an admirable captain, the possessor of much tact and judgment, and a great forward.

Mr. Parkinson, the Maddenstown Lodge trainer, brought off double events at the Maze and Milltown-Malbay yesterday, Miss Slasher and Rockbellew, both ridden by H. Beasley, scoring in the North, and Ulster Man and On the Rocks at the County Clare fixture for W. J. Parkinson, who made the long journey from the Curragh overnight, steered the two last-named. Another trainer to win a couple of races at Milltown-Malbay was Mr. Cleary, of Mullingar, and E. Houlihan had two successful rides.

Final—Costigan, 1; Boothroyd, 2; Hafferty, 3; Rogers, 4. Betting—5 to 2 on winner, who went in front at threequarters of the distance, and won easily by a yard and a half. Time, 12 1-5 secs.

176 Yards Handicap (£10).—Walmsley Bury (18 yds.), 1; Sloan, Manchester (20), 2; Tipping, Ramsbme (13), 3. Won by a yard; half a yard divided second and third.

Half-Mile Handicap.—Birds, Moston (65), 1; Edwards, Openshaw (58), 2; Wainwright, Sheffield (65), 3. Won by three yards.

BILLIARDS.

NEWMAN v. FALKINER.—Receiving 350 start in 6,000 up, Falkiner outpointed Newman at Leicester square yesterday afternoon. He averaged 89 for an aggregate of 816, against Newman's figures of 25 and 66 respectively. One of the chief breaks were 285 (full), 62, and 72 by Newman, and 176, 80, 68, and 129 (unfinished) by Falkiner. Interval scores—Newman, 3,350; Falkiner (in play), 3,151.

SWIMMING.

The mile race (handicap) for the Scott Cup, to be swum in the open sea, has been fixed for Tuesday, August 22nd. LADIES' BRANCH—The club photo will be taken this evening at 6 o'clock.

ANGLING.

WATERVILLE.

The weather has been sultry, bright, and calm, and very little has been done on the lough. A few brown trout and an occasional sea trout have been put in the late evenings, but generally speaking little sport has been obtained. River fishing continues out of the question owing to very low waters. Sport has also been extremely dull on the upper lakes and on the mountain lakes. At time of writing (Wednesday) there has been some thunder in this district, and rain is falling, but not heavily. If heavy rain falls for some time numbers of salmon that are now in the mouth of the Waterville and Inny Rivers will come up, and good sport should follow. Sea angling has not been as good as usual here during the ordinary fishing hours, but local fishermen fishing in the late evenings half the takes of garnet, bream, and scad. A few whiting have been had.

CARAGH LAKE.—The Great Southern Hotel now open. Moderate Pension Terms. Rail and Hotel Combined Tickets. Fishing, Golf.—(Advt.)

NAVAL AND MILITARY INTELLIGENCE.

(FROM OUR MILITARY CORRESPONDENT IN IRELAND.)

Major-General W. Fry, C.V.O., C.B., in charge of Administration, Irish Command, will inspect the Dépôt of the Leinster Regiment at Birr to-day.

Instructions have been issued that in all cases where men are released from munition works in order to rejoin the Colours, they are to be sent without delay for trade testing by the Royal Flying Corps. If they are passed by the Officer in Charge of the Trade Testing party they will be posted direct by him to a technical corps; if not passed they will be returned to their dépôt for disposal.

It has been decided that non-commissioned officers posted as temporary sergeant instructors to command schools of musketry are in future to remain at these schools for a tour of duty of not less than six months, unless, in the meantime, they are promoted to a rank higher than that of sergeant, in which case they will return to their units.

Lieutenant-Colonel W. H. W. Elliot, I.S.O., Indian Medical Service, retired list, has been

FRIDAY, AUGUST 11, 1916.

Recruiting in Ireland.

The strain and losses of two years of war have compelled the War Office to invade the strong regimental and territorial feeling of the British Army. The experiment is being made gently and with delicate precaution, but it represents, nevertheless, a large departure from tradition. Hitherto the regiments of the British Army have been kept up to strength by drafts from their own reserves, recruited, for the most part, from the area where, early or late, the regiment had its birth. This ancient and honoured system has not proved adequate to the unexampled needs of the present war. Many regiments have suffered casualties so numerous that they could not be repaired from their own reserve battalions. It has been necessary to transfer men from the reserves of another regiment, and this method is always unpopular with both the regiments affected by it. The War Office has now established a new Training Reserve as a general pool from which drafts can be found for any regiment which cannot fill its vacant places from its own reserves. The Special and Extra Special Reserve battalions are to be maintained at their full establishment, with the object of protecting the territorial connection; but the remainder of the infantry reserve battalions, now known as Second Reserve and Local Reserve battalions, will become the new Training Reserve. They will discard their present regimental designations, and will be given consecutive numbers as battalions of the Training Reserve. When a regiment's own reserves are unable to supply an urgent draft to a battalion at the front the men will be taken from the Training Reserve. They will come to the new regiment without any regimental history of their own, and will be assimilated without any sense of loss to themselves or to their new comrades in arms. The new men will gain a regimental habitation and a name; the battalion to which they come will feel no dilution of its virtue. Of course, the innovation will not be very popular, but some remedy was necessary, and this is, perhaps, the best which could be devised. The territorial connection will still be regarded as a sacred thing, and will be maintained so far as may be possible. We gather that national, and even provincial, distinctions will still be preserved. The War Office will probably be careful not to send a draft of Scotsmen to the Sherwood Foresters or a draft consisting entirely of Englishmen to the Black Watch.

This important reform does not apply to Ireland. We were omitted from the Registration Act and the Military Service Acts, and we shall not come under the operation of the new Training Reserve. It affects us, however, in a way which should fill every decent Irishman with profound apprehension. The Training Reserve safeguards the fame and honour of every historic regiment in Great Britain. Not one of them can now fail for want of men. Their glorious losses will be made good by a steady stream of trained recruits who will soon become part and parcel of their traditions and their pride. What of the not less historic regiments of Ireland? We have three Irish Divisions in the field. The 10th Division suffered terrible losses at Gallipoli. The 16th Division has purchased its speedy fame at a heavy cost in France. The 36th (Ulster) Division left an awful proportion of its men on the immortal field of Thiepval. Before the rebellion recruiting was unsatisfactory in Ireland, and since the rebellion it has almost reached vanishing point. Our Irish soldiers are falling day after day, and we are not filling the gaps. The result must be undying disgrace for a country whose martial record has never yet been dimmed. The Military Correspondent of The Times says that the days of the three Irish Divisions, as Irish Divisions, are numbered. "Either battalions must be amalgamated or disbanded, or, alternatively, they must be filled up by other than Irish recruits." As a matter of fact, many hundreds of English and Scottish soldiers are fighting to-day in the 10th and 16th Divisions. They will be fighting to-morrow in the 36th Division if Ulster does not rise effectively to the call which is now being made on her for more men. Recruiting in all parts of Ireland has been insufficient from the beginning. It was a fatal weakness which restrained the Government from enforcing the Military Service Acts in this country. We are paying the penalty for it now in the growing hostility of the English people to the able-bodied Irishmen who are seeking to replace in their harvest fields, at high wages, English labourers now fighting their country's battles at a shilling a day. A vast amount of hypocrisy and nonsense has been talked by loose-tongued politicians about Ireland's part in the war. The truth is that, while our soldiers have fought magnificently, whole classes of the people have been too cowardly, too disloyal, or too selfish to do their duty. Three courses are open to Ireland now, and one of them must be chosen. We must get some tens of thousands of voluntary recruits, or we must accept compulsory service, or we must be content to see our Irish battalions amalgamated, disbanded, or turned into English battalions in all but name. If we adopt this last miserable course, with what face shall we—the only part of the Empire which failed to "see the thing through"—present ourselves to the Imperial Conference at the end of the war?

War Finance.

The Chancellor of the Exchequer made an important statement in Parliament yesterday on the national finances of the United Kingdom. The business before the House of Commons was a vote for the salaries and expenses of the Treasury, and [illegible] the Treasury in borrowing to so large an extent on short-term Treasury Bills. The anxiety of the Treasury's task in respect of borrowings is indicated by the fact that an average sum of £35,000,000 has to be raised every week—a sum which, as Mr. McKenna said, would have been regarded during the South African War as in itself a large and alarming loan. The methods by which so vast a sum is to be obtained must necessarily be the subject of very careful consideration. We do not propose to discuss the intricate question of the relative merits of short-term and long-term borrowing. Both methods have their merits. Both can, and must, be used: the question which was debated yesterday is whether the Treasury is using one method to an excessive extent, to the neglect of the other. In due course, most of the borrowing must be put on a long-term basis, for the country will not be able to pay off the huge expense of the war this year or next year, or even in five years At all events, it would be neither convenient nor fair to attempt the task. Our victory in this war will be for the benefit not only of this generation, but of many generations, and some of the burden must be carried forward. As a matter of immediate policy, however, the Treasury is borrowing on bills, bonds, and certificates which will be due for redemption within a short period, and the pursuance of this policy to the exclusion of borrowings for later repayment—like the War Loan redeemable between 1925 and 1945—was the ground of criticism. Mr. McKenna, in reply, did not commit the Treasury to any particular future policy, one way or the other. He had to choose his words carefully, for if he had indicated that a new War Loan was in contemplation for the near future, the hint would have had important consequences in the Stock market. He did not deny, however, that the Treasury would issue a Loan when it seemed convenient. The present policy was not dangerous, he maintained, in view of the extent of the national resources.

This point led the Chancellor on to a review of the financial position. He estimated the position as it will be at the end of next March—the end of the financial year—at the present rate of expenditure, carefully guarding himself no rever, from any prophecy as to the likelihood of the war's ending before the date. It is estimated that our net indebtedness by March 31st, after the amount of advances to our Allies and Dominions has been deducted, will be £2,640,000,000. That is no more than the estimated national income for one year. Moreover, it is only one-sixth of the estimated capital wealth of the country, which is put by "conscientious" investigators at 15,000 millions. It is necessarily difficult to arrive at a figure which can be taken to represent what a country like the United Kingdom would realise if it came to be sold up for debt—and that is virtually the meaning in everyday business parlance of the phrase "capital wealth." The figure mentioned by Mr. McKenna is, however, widely accepted. The Chancellor's speech is probably intended in some degree as an answer to enemy criticisms, such as that which appeared recently in the Frankfurter Zeitung. Talk of the "inexhaustible resources" of England, said this journal, is mere bluff. "The enormous wealth of capital is, indeed, there, but it is tied up in real estate and other enterprises, and is not at the disposal of the State in sufficient proportion." The answer to this was given by The Times. The practice of mortgaging real property has never been developed in the United Kingdom to the same extent as on the Continent, and particularly in Germany for war purposes. It is significant that certain German insurance companies, as evidence of their soundness, have been emphasising the smallness of the amounts of German War Loans held by them. The opinion of neutral financiers as to British soundness is indicated by the fact that we are able to borrow abroad at a cheaper rate than any other of the belligerent Powers. The Chancellor of the Exchequer summarised our two years' war finance in terms of eloquent brevity. We have raised a gigantic revenue—this year's revenue, he stated earlier, would be equal to one-fifth of our total indebtedness—and we have borrowed gigantic sums, and obtained them at reasonable rates all this time. There is every ground for confidence that, with the continued willing cooperation of taxpayers and investors, we can maintain our credit to the end of the war, no matter how long it may continue. The statement is in interesting contrast with the prophecies which were made a few years ago, that a European war could not last many months because the credit of the belligerents would fail.

The Price of Wheat.

There was another sharp rise in the price of wheat yesterday, and a further increase in the price of bread is now extremely probable, if not certain. Wheat merchants explain that part of the present advance is accounted for by freights, and the balance by fears as to the prospects of the new American crop. It has been known for some weeks that "black rust," a blight which develops in hot and humid weather, has affected some areas in the northern and western States, and recently it was freely rumoured that the "rust" had spread into Canada. So far as Canada is concerned, there has been no official confirmation of the rumour; on the contrary, it has been stated from an authoritative source that "prospects were never better." These facts suggest that, having in view the known existence of "rust" in some areas in the United States, interested persons on both sides of the Atlantic have been exploiting the damage as a scare for higher prices. The excuse of high freights, so frequently paraded, is even more certainly fictitious. The chairman of a great shipping firm disposed of it last week when he said that "the freight on wheat from America and Canada is equal to round about a farthing per pound, so that out of the price of, say, 3½d. paid now for a four-pound loaf of bread, only a penny represents freight." Freights were relieved more than a month ago, when the Government released a number of ships on condition that they entered the North Atlantic wheat trade. It is a remarkable fact that since the time when that relief began to operate prices have steadily advanced. The fluctuation during the past six months has been extraordinary. Between January and March the price of wheat rose from fifty-six to nearly sixty shillings a quarter; from March to July 1st there was a fall of just over thirteen shillings; and since that date the price has advanced, in six weeks, by over sixteen shillings. There has been hardly any parallel to these variations since the period of the Corn Laws. They are most strongly suggestive of just that kind of [illegible] Government has the widest powers to restrain.

RACING IN IRELAND.

In the House of Commons yesterday,

Major NEWMAN asked the Secretary of State for the Home Department whether, in view of the cancelling of all race meetings in Great Britain, it is proposed to cancel or carry out the full autumn and winter list of fixtures in Ireland.

Mr. HARCOURT said that no action in regard to racing in Ireland had been taken by the Board of Trade, and so far as he was aware no action was at present contemplated.

Sir H. MEUX—Is not the question incorrectly worded? Will not the autumn meetings at Newmarket take place as previously arranged?

Mr. HARCOURT—Yes, sir. That is the statement in the hon. member's question is incorrect.

GOVERNMENT AND LABOUR.

Mr. Anderson put down last night a notice of motion to reduce the salary of the Minister of Munitions on the Report of Supply, for the purpose of raising a debate on Tuesday on the whole subject of the relation of the Department with labour.

The Prime Minister will next week make a full statement on the creation of a Cabinet office of Labour Adviser, and the appointment of Mr. Arthur Henderson to the post. It is understood a new department will be established, and will have separate offices and staff under the direction of a responsible Minister, for the purpose of investigating labour problems for the information of other departments and the Cabinet.

QUEEN'S VISIT TO SOUTH HACKNEY.

The Queen paid an informal visit to South Hackney, London, yesterday, and viewed five out of nine Rolls of Honour posted in its streets containing the names of men who had voluntarily enlisted for war service. This idea was conceived some months ago, and has since been followed by many other London parishes. In some cases in South Hackney more men had volunteered than there were houses in the streets in which they resided. Each Roll, framed with flowers, constantly renewed by the people themselves, under the direction of the Vicar and clergy, was affixed to the house which had contributed most men. The Queen's original arrangement was to motor direct through the gaily beflagged areas, but Her Majesty altered her plans, and insisted on dismounting at each centre, inspecting the Roll at close quarters, and talking in a friendly and sympathetic way with the relations of the men fighting or fallen at the front. She brought with her a number of small bouquets of carnations and roses, and in each instance gave one of them to be added as her special contribution to the floral frames of the Rolls. On their side the inhabitants at each centre handed to Her Majesty a choice bouquet. At one depot the owner of a gramophone welcomed the Royal visitors with the strains of the National Anthem and "Rule Britannia." After bestowing her small bouquets, the Queen, who declared the whole parish had done splendidly in the matter of contributing to the Forces of the Empire, found she had a few bunches left, and these she thoughtfully distributed among the relatives of the men who had died on the field of honour. As the motor slowly left for the return to Buckingham Palace the people cheered continuously.

ARRIVAL OF THE CHIEF SECRETARY.

Mr. Duke, the new Chief Secretary for Ireland, arrived in Dublin at five o'clock yesterday evening. He was accompanied by Mrs. Stockham Davis, his daughter, with whom he motored to his lodge in the Phœnix Park. Mr. Duke will to-day be sworn a member of the Irish Privy Council at a meeting of the Council to be held at twelve o'clock in the Council Chamber, Dublin Castle.

The General Life Assurance Company announces that the Right Hon. H. E. Duke, K.C., M.P., has resigned his seat on the Board on appointment as Chief Secretary to the Lord Lieutenant of Ireland.

LONDON CORRESPONDENCE.

153 FLEET STREET, LONDON,
THURSDAY NIGHT.

Soho was ablaze with bunting to-day in celebration of the great Italian victory. One restaurant boasted no fewer than eight flags, and the gay colours of the Italian red, white, and green quite brightened the dingy street. Portraits of the King and Queen of Italy were shown on some houses, in addition to other decorations. The whole of Soho was buzzing with excitement last night and to-day, and a feeling of satisfaction that Italy has now scored a great victory in line with all the other Allies was frankly expressed.

A most realistic series of film pictures was shown at the Scala Theatre this afternoon, giving many scenes taken during the Somme advance. Some of the pictures are so terribly real that they come with a shock. Soldiers are seen in the trenches waiting to leap out at the signal. The signal comes, and for a moment they stand poised on the parapet. Some go on, but others fall back into the trench, dead or wounded. The work of dealing with the wounded, the prisoners of war, the great and small guns, is all shown in detail, while the doings of representative regiments are pictured in a most interesting manner. Mr. Lloyd George was unable to be present, but a message was read from him expressing his conviction that as a result of these wonderful pictures every heart would beat higher in sympathy with their cause and purpose, which was no other than that every one of us at home and those abroad should see what our men at the front are doing and suffering for us, and how their achievements have been rendered possible by the sacrifices made at home.

Sir Edward Carson's suggestion of a special Minister to take charge of the interest of our prisoners of war will soon have to be carried out if questions on the subject continue to multiply. Mr. Ronald McNeill could not understand how it was that recently a party of 62 Germans was exchanged for only 36 British. Mr. Forster explained that the exchange was based on certain standards of mental and physical disability, and not on mere numbers; but still Mr. McNeill remained unconvinced, and was so pertinacious with his supplementaries that even Mr. Forster, gentlest of Ministers, rapped out quite a sharp answer.

Most of the important Irish questions on the paper were postponed, owing to Mr. Duke's absence. Mr. T. W. Russell, however, gave some particulars of recent purchases of land by the Congested Districts Board. Sir Edward Carson pointedly asked whether any of this land was being reserved for wounded soldiers. Mr. Russell's reply, if he gave one, was inaudible in the gallery. In this connection Mr. Hazleton was informed that four War Pensions Committees have already been set up in Ireland, and that 14 schemes have been submitted.

Mr. Asquith announced that he proposed to take the second reading of the Dublin Reconstruction and other Irish Bills on Thursday next. The Bill for the further extension of the life of this Parliament will be introduced on Monday, when he will also make a statement about registration. In reply to Sir Edward Carson, he said the Registration Bill would be printed before the adjournment, but not carried further until after the recess. Sir Edward, however, insisted that the second reading ought to be taken before the House broke up.

In Committee on the Civil Service Estimates, Sir Charles Henry moved to reduce Mr. McKenna's salary by £100 in order to call attention to the large issue of Treasury Bills. He was supported to some extent by Sir Frederick Banbury and Mr. George Faber, who said, inter alia, that the late Chancellor of the Exchequer had described him as "a common or garden banker for having prophesied, [illegible] as before few [illegible] It would be as reasonable to [illegible] as Mr

OUR TREATMENT OF GERMAN PRISONERS.

QUARTERS EXTREMELY COMFORTABLE.

ONLY SLIGHT COMPLAINTS.

The Foreign Office has issued a report from the American Ambassador in London regarding the British camp at Rouen for German prisoners of war recently transferred from England to France. The visit was made by representatives of the United States Embassy at Paris. The German prisoners in the camp number 1,468, made up of 79 non-commissioned officers and 1,389 privates. The depôt is situated near the Seine and also near a camp for British soldiers. The quarters of the prisoners are in wooden huts, which appeared to be well lighted and ventilated. Each bed is provided with a bolster and two blankets. The appearance of the huts was extremely clean and orderly.

The Feldwebels (non-commissioned officers) are quartered in separate rooms, two in a room, and are provided with bunks for sleeping, a table, chairs, etc. Their quarters appeared to be extremely comfortable.

With regard to washing and bathing arrangements, there are fourteen taps in one room and in the other twenty-eight taps opening into troughs. Fourteen shower-baths, with cement floors, are being constructed. These are to have both hot and cold water. There is also a laundry, where the men wash their clothes, and a steam disinfecting apparatus. There had been no epidemic or case of serious illness.

The kitchen appeared suitable and clean. Adjoining was a large pantry, with fly-proof cage for keeping meat and supplies of food. Outside was a large iron water tank with tap, where prisoners could always obtain drinking water. The water was stated to be chemically purified.

Prisoners working at a distance took food with them, and had their dinner upon their return in the evening. The food was stated to be of the same quality as that supplied to the British troops.

A canteen was established in a well-arranged room. A price list of articles sold was posted, and only alcohol and wines were not allowed to be sold. Goods were brought from the British Expeditionary Force canteen, and sold at a small margin of profit, which is stated to be fixed by the prisoners themselves, subject to the approval of the commandant. The entire profits are stated to be expended for the benefit of the prisoners. Tobacco is allowed to be freely received or purchased. Smoking is allowed at all times, and throughout the depôt, also within the huts.

About 85 prisoners are employed in various work about the depôt. Those working outside are requisitioned as wanted by the French authorities, and are accompanied by British soldiers as guards. About 558 were working outside on the date of the representatives' visit. These prisoners are employed at various kinds of work, principally in discharging ships on the docks, loading and unloading railway cars, cutting timber, and in connection with a number of trades. Every Sunday is a rest day. Pay is 40 centimes per day.

There were several cells and a detention room in one of the huts, all well ventilated. The cells were sufficiently long for a man to lie easily at full length. There appeared to have been very few punishments considering the number of prisoners. The principal cause of punishment appeared to have been shamming illness to avoid work.

Prisoners have the liberty of the depôt enclosure for exercise. There were no games, but the commandant desired to encourage them. A few days before he had offered a money prize for a tug-of-war contest, but the prisoners showed little interest.

Condition of clothing and shoes appeared to be good. Prisoners were allowed to write two letters or postcards per week, and to receive an unlimited number of letters, parcels, and money orders.

COMPLAINTS AND WANTS.

The following complaints and wants were notified:—

1. That simple "unteroffiziers" were treated and obliged to work like the privates.

2. That they were only paid 40 centimes a day, the rate of pay claimed under the Hague Convention by British prisoners they should be paid at the same rate as prisoners in England. The depôt officers stated that this was in accordance with regulations.

3. Several prisoners complained that while on their way to and from work they were often exposed to insulting remarks from the local population in the streets. The depôt officers admitted that this was very likely true, but difficult to prevent.

4. That while at work annoyance was caused to them and difficulties sometimes arose owing to their not knowing whether they were to obey their British guards or the Frenchmen for whom they were working. The depôt officers admitted that this was quite likely that some conflicting orders occurred. The prisoners claimed that, as British prisoners, they should only obey the British authorities.

5. There was a shortage of medicines and the supplies were frequently not as wanted, but the military restrictions will be withdrawn before Tuesday.

6. Some of the Feldwebels complained that they were responsible for the men and the depôt generally, but that they were not in any way supported by the depôt officers, and that discipline consequently suffered. The depôt officers stated that this complaint was entirely unjustified.

7. A number of the prisoners requested that the depôt might be furnished with tables and benches. The depôt officers took note of these wants.

8. There were a number of complaints that the dust from the rolled cinders, with which the canteen floor was covered, got into the throat and dirtied the prisoners' clothes. This complaint was also noted by the depôt officers.

9. Several prisoners complained that they and others were obliged to carry sacks of grain weighing 150 and 200 lbs. The depôt officers stated that they thought the Bills-Gynott maximum, 200lbs. too much. The matter will take note of this complaint.

10. Unteroffizier Resch claimed to have been struck with his fist by a British depôt officer, and reported this, and that the prisoner had not been punished. Prisoners were told that it would be investigated. that all complaints to the commandant.

11. There was also a complaint that the canteen prices were unreasonably high, owing to a shortage of the men, and that there was a depôt officers stated common articles. The were bought from the canteen supplies ment rates, and made the canteen prices fixed by prisoners with the consent of the Commandant. There had been some that certain supplies owing to the arrival of a steamer, and throughout the depôt, also within the huts.

12. Delay in arrival of parcels and money. This was apparently owing to the recent transfer to Rouen of part of the depôt officers' staff, which had been paid, and should be regularly in future.

13. It was claimed by some of the prisoners that there were about four hundred men in the depôt who did not belong to them in the class, and had never performed labouring labour. They found the work to physical depôt officers stated that they didn't. The the work too hard for any valid soldier.

15. Vize-Feldwebel Rohloff, in charge of the kitchen, stated that the food was of the good quality, but lacked variety; that the good lack of soap, and also that there was a in the drinking water. A number of prisoners also stated that the rations were sufficient, and that they would like 2 bread daily. The depôt officers said that regular ration was issued. The water is occasionally a little salty, but was then as drunk by the British soldiers, and no effects had been observed.

The scale of rations at the camp was as follows:—[illegible] bread, ½lb. meat, fresh or ¼ ration pressed; ½oz. tea, ½oz. salt, sugar, 1-20th of a tin of condensed milk, fresh vegetables, 1-72nd oz. of pepper, ½oz. margarine (getting butter at present), and of peas, beans, or oatmeal, lentils and green vegetables.

CLOTHING.

Prisoners were supplied with jacket, trousers and one working suit, a great coat, and boots as required. Supplied:—

The following necessaries were also issued: Two pairs flannel drawers, 1 clothes, flannel bair-brushes, tooth-brushes, necktie, comb, shirt, socks, towels, knife, fork required, and soap as required, handkerchief, water-bottle.

Replying to the American Ambassador, Viscount Grey states that inquiry to be made ment have caused immediate attention to the into the complaint manifested and obliged to simple Unteroffiziers and the allegation that work like the privates that this was in the depôt officers' regulations." The result of accordance with this show that the complaint this inquiry is without foundation.

O.T. COMMEMORATION COMMITTEE.

A meeting held yesterday at 14 Grafton ...ting the following resolution was proposed by Sir Maurice Dockrell, D.L., and passed unanimously:—

That the marked thanks of this committee be given to Mr. Lewis H. S. Beatty, our Hon. Secretary and Hon. Treasurer, but for whose indefatigable services the very successful results which the committee have achieved would have been impossible.

MORE GERMAN "DEVILRIES."

You will have noticed, writes the Special Correspondent of The Times, that in the official communiqués and Press despatches of the last few days there has been mention of the use by the Germans in their attacks in the Pozières region of "flames" and "liquid fire," the two terms being apparently used indifferently. The fact is that they seem to be using two distinct things. Besides the ordinary flammenwerfer, there has appeared what is said to look like a rocket, which, when it bursts, ejects great showers of something much resembling the familiar "golden rain" of firework displays. It is very beautiful, but what its exact use may be is a matter of argument. It is not known to have done any harm. The new gas shell has quite lost its novelty and any terror it had. From many officers and men who have had experience of them, and from those in charge of casualty clearing stations, I get the same accounts. In all departments we quickly get the measure of the successive German deviltries.

DONEGAL HIBERNIANS.

BALLYBOFEY DEMONSTRATION PROHIBITED.

The Press Association says:—A Londonderry telegram states that the county demonstration of the Ancient Order of Hibernians, which was to have been held on Tuesday at Ballybofey, County Donegal, has been prohibited by the military authorities.

Six members of Parliament had promised to attend the meeting—namely, Messrs. Dillon, Devlin, Keating, Hugh Law, Edward Kelly, and Swift MacNeill—whose names appeared on the posters distributed throughout the Co. Donegal.

In a second communication, which reached Londonderry shortly before midnight, the Committee explain that the Military have prohibited the meeting, but, notwithstanding this order, the Committee have decided to hold the meeting, as they are hopeful that the military restrictions will be withdrawn before Tuesday.

Last night's communiqué:—

Except for a somewhat lively cannonade to the north of the Somme and in the region of Thiaumont Work the day passed quietly. On the whole front bad weather continues to impede operations.

GERMAN OFFICIAL.

Yesterday's Berlin communiqué:—

The artillery combat between the Ancre and the Somme is proceeding with great strength. The English attempts to attack at Bazentin le Petit were frustrated by our fire.

The number of unwounded English who have fallen into our hands since August 8 has increased to thirteen officers and 500 men.

Between Maurepas and the Somme eight severe enemy attacks made last evening and during the night failed.

On the right bank of the Meuse, apart from minor hand-grenade fighting, there was no infantry activity.

Two enemy aeroplanes were shot down south of Bapaume, one in an air fight and one by the fire of anti-aircraft guns. Three other enemy machines were shot down respectively south of Lille, near Lens, and near Saarbruecken (Lorraine).

WHAT OUR ARTILLERY IS DOING.

The Press Association's special correspondent at British Headquarters in the field, France, telegraphed on Wednesday:—

It seems that, so far from any abatement in the intensity of our artillery fire, the average daily volume of this grows heavier and heavier. One hesitates to claim a record, but certainly I have not yet heard a greater uproar during the whole of this offensive than has occasionally accompanied the fighting of the past twenty-four hours. Not that this is necessarily any indication as to the number of shells discharged. Experience has shown that the noise effects of a bombardment are very largely influenced by atmospheric conditions, which seem to accentuate or deaden the vibrations to such a degree as to render these as very misleading standard for gauging fire intensity.

One of the most remarkable feats of organisation in this push has been the uninterrupted maintenance of the ammunition supplies. A short while since I referred to an estimate that during the first four weeks of the British offensive our guns-we had discharged some five million shells. Consider what it means in the exactions upon the transport service. Close upon 180,000 shells a day to be brought up to the guns, most of which are consumed in places the reverse of accessible to heavy vehicles. These projectiles vary in weight from the eighteen-pounder, of which a field battery in these times will constantly discharge about ten tons a day, up to something like three-quarters of a ton. It is useful to bear these figures in mind when we are inclined to ask why the offensive does not proceed more rapidly, for they enable us to realise that it is not merely a question of fighting and beating the enemy in his strong positions. The moving of artillery in these is a task scarcely probably involves the employment of as great an aggregate of power as went to the building of the great pyramid.

Then there is the getting up of, say, 180,000 rounds of ammunition every twenty-four hours over roads already congested with the transport of other supplies and the movement of troops, an undertaking which probably not calculated to facilitate rapid progress. But we can afford now to say festina lente, because not only are we out-shooting the Boches, but we know full well that this terrific daily aggregate of shells is killing them at a rate which can have but one result.

SHIPPING LOSSES.

Lloyd's Agency states:—An unconfirmed report says the Spanish steamer Ganekogorta Mendi has been sunk.

Lloyd's report the steamer Sphere, of Glasgow, from Houlleur for Newport, Mon., was sunk by a German submarine on August 3rd.

The Lord Mayor of London has received nearly £50,000 in respect of the France's Day collections for the French Red Cross Society, they being irrespective of the amounts paid to the Committee of that body. Among the larger contributions were—Liverpool, £4,977; Manchester (first instalment), £5,000; Newcastle, £2,338; and members of the Baltic, £3,150.

WESTERN FRONT.

PROGRESS BY FRENCH AND BRITISH.

OPERATIONS HAMPERED BY BAD WEATHER.

The day was comparatively uneventful on the British front. North-west of Pozieres our troops made further progress and consolidated the positions taken. 72 prisoners were captured.

The French report also records some progress north of Hem wood, where 100 prisoners were captured, as well as six machine guns.

In the Verdun region there was intermittent bombardment in the sectors of Fleury and Vaux-Chapitre.

BRITISH OFFICIAL.

BRITISH GENERAL HEADQUARTERS,
THURSDAY, 12.40 P.M.

Last night was generally quiet along our front, except for heavy hostile shelling of our lines south-east of Trônes Wood.

North-west of Pozières we made further progress, gaining all our local objectives, which are being consolidated. Seventy-two prisoners were taken.

South of Arras we raided an enemy sap and inflicted several casualties.

A similar attempt by the enemy against our trenches north-west of Hulluch met with no success.

The enemy exploded a mine south of Loos without any effect.

9.40 P.M.

The position is unchanged along the whole British front.

Some parties of the enemy advancing against our lines south of Martinpuich were effectively dealt with by our trench mortars and machine guns, and no hostile attack developed.

Our aeroplanes continued bombing operations against the enemy's billets and other points of military importance. In the course of many aerial combats yesterday several enemy machines were driven down in hostile territory, and three of ours have not returned.

FRENCH OFFICIAL.

Yesterday afternoon's Paris communiqué:—

To the north of the Somme, in the course of the night, we made some progress in the region to the north of Hem Wood, and brought up to 100 the number of prisoners taken by us yesterday in this region. Besides this, we captured six machines guns.

Rain and fog are hampering the operations.

To the south of the Somme a German reconnaissance, which attempted to reach our lines, whilst making use of liquid fire was dispersed by our fire to the west of Vermond Ovillers.

On the right bank of the Meuse there was an intermittent bombardment of the region of Fleury and Vaux-Chapitre.

In the Vosges an enemy surprise attack preceded by a bombardment on a salient of our lines to the north-west of Altkirch was entirely unsuccessful, and only caused losses to the assailants.

Aviation.—On the Somme front a German machine was brought down, and two other enemy machines were compelled to alight near Combles.

Our bombarding air squadrons dropped ninety shells on the railway stations on the Lassigny-Combles front.

Shells were also dropped on the railway stations of Dugny, Appilez, Bazzancourt, Spincourt, and Thiaucourt, and also on a battery in action and on occupied camp Verdun, making a total of 430 projectiles.

Last night's communiqué:—

Except for a somewhat lively cannonade to the north of the Somme and in the region of Thiaumont Work the day passed quietly. On the whole front bad weather continues to impede operations.

WAR ITEMS.

The Tsar has awarded the Sword of Honour of St. George, with brilliants, to General Brussiloff, the conqueror of the Austro-Hungarian armies in Galicia and Volhynia.

The Belgian communiqué issued on Wednesday night says:—Our guns of all calibres successfully resumed the destruction of German works in the region of Dixmude.

According to the Nieuwe Rotterdamsche Courant, the Prussian casualty list, Nos. 590 to 595, contains the names of 67,461 killed, wounded, and missing. The total is now 2,911,387.

The Secretary for the Colonies announces that the natives of the Province of Hewa, Fiji, have offered £1,500 for the purpose of an aeroplane. This patriotic offer has been gratefully accepted, and the thanks of the Army Council have been communicated to the chiefs of the province.

The Maasbode publishes a telegram from Maastricht, reporting that the French airmen who threw bombs on Metz hit the station, and destroyed ten houses in one street containing 50 barracks. Great damage was done to a fort near Metz, 200 soldiers being killed or wounded.

At a meeting on Wednesday, the Committee of Lloyd's passed resolutions sympathising with the widow of the late Captain Fryatt, and deploring the crime as having added cold-blooded judicial murder to the deeds of the Government already responsible for the sinking of Lusitania and other vessels, involving the drowning innocent lives.

HOW GORIZIA WAS TAKEN.

ITALIANS' GREAT STROKE.

ALL POSITIONS HELD.

OVER 12,000 PRISONERS.

The Italians continue to cross the Isonzo, and cavalry and cyclists are pressing forward east of Gorizia. Prisoners already taken number 12,672 men, in addition to 268 officers.

The fall of Gorizia continues to excite tremendous enthusiasm in Italy, where it is regarded as practically opening the gate to Trieste.

Last evening's Italian communiqué:—

In the Gorizia area our troops continued to cross the Isonzo on a newly-repaired bridge. Our cavalry and cyclists pressed forward to the east of the town at several points under heavy fire.

The presence of hostile forces is reported on the heights to the north-east of the town, on the hills of Rosetha, and at several points along the Vertojoica line. Our cavalry charged the enemy with standards flying, inflicting heavy losses, and taking seven d hundred prisoners.

On the Carso, after very hot fighting, our troops succeeded in piercing strong entrenchments north-east of Mount St. Michele, and near the village of St. Martino and occupied Boschini.

Prisoners continue to arrive. We have pointed up till now 268 officers and 12,072 men.

Yesterday the enemy attempted to relieve pressure on the Lower Isonzo by violent attacks and heavy bombardments on various other portions of the front. Action of this kind took place on the Tonale, in the Guidicarie and Lagarina Valley, on the Pasubio on Mount Cimone, in Val Travignolo and on the Mezli. Everywhere we maintained our positions.

A squadron of 18 Caproni aeroplanes, escorted by Nieuport machines, raided the supply stations of Pravacina and Dorberg. More than three tons of high explosives were dropped on the railway station and on military depots. Good results were observed. Notwithstanding the intense fire of anti-aircraft batteries and attacks of hostile aeroplanes, one of which was brought down, the squadron returned safely. Hostile aircraft dropped bombs on Venice. Two persons were killed, and some damage was done.

HOW GORIZIA WAS TAKEN.

Mr. A. Beaumont, Special Correspondent of the Press Association and the Daily Telegraph, telegraphed from Milan on Thursday afternoon:—

The losses of the Austrians at Gorizia were enormous. Official accounts stated that dead everywhere filled the demolished trenches of the enemy. But many of the defending army had time to retreat, and, as the prisoners taken amount to 10,000, and only about the same number were able to escape, it may well be imagined what became of the rest of the divisions which had defended Gorizia.

A Swiss correspondent, who has been on the Austrian side, sums up his impressions in a few words. He says:—"What I saw on Podgora, on Sabotino, and Monte Santo were lines upon lines of Austrian corpses exposed as if for a review of the dead."

A lengthy official account describes the work of the Italian artillery, and gives an idea of its terrible work of destruction. Every line of the enemy's trenches was mapped out, and each battery had its work assigned to it. The artillery accomplished the remainder by a series of brillian assaults. They approached the enemy in one quarter by subterranean galleries to within forty yards, and in another they forded and swam across the Isonzo in the middle of a hail of shells and rifle fire. On a third point engineers and sappers threw bridges and pontoons across the stream to hurry on the reinforcements. It was one vast enveloping, overpowering movement amidst all the uproar of battle. The Austrians were prepared to cover with a furious fire the famous bridges and points of crossing, but the Italians threw their bridges at unexpected points, and were across in many Detachments of the Casale and Pavia Brigade received orders to cross between Madonna di Sant Andrea, almost opposite Vippacco, the river at this point is not very deep and the banks are winding and form good cover. In they plunged, emerging from the opposite waist deep, holding their rifles with bayonets already fixed, high up to avoid wetting them, while others carried hand-grenades high in the air. Their eagerness to plunge in and to cross is heroic. They scramble up the banks, and hurriedly take cover or move on among rocky borders and in the brushwood closer and closer to the enemy's position. All of them are over in half an hour. They dash into the town, occupy house after house, and as they do so find many of them shut of joy. Austrians are taken in groups by surprise. They attempt to escape, but find their retreat barred; they fire some of their last shots, and then throw up their arms in surrender, feeling that all is up and that the Italians are in front and behind.

The irruption was so sudden that several thousand Austrians distributed all over the town became completely demoralised, and lost all cohesion between them, and were captured in groups after a short struggle.

During the first two days of the battle a small detachment of Italians had advanced alone and were taken prisoners. These men had been left by the Austrians, and when they were discovered and delivered to their compatriots there were scenes of rejoicing and mutual embracings. They were discovered huddled in some of the first houses on entering the town. Not knowing what was happening, they remained quiet, and their Austrian guards had suddenly abandoned them, they at once resumed their rifles, and joined in the pursuit. Meanwhile, on the other side of the town, at the foot of Podgora, a terrific hand-to-hand battle took place. The Austrians here defended themselves with the courage of desperation. Men were seen grappling with each other, rolling over, struggling up, and again seizing each other by the throat. The combat only ceased when one or other was dead.

ITALIAN PRESS COMMENT.

(PRESS ASSOCIATION WAR SPECIAL.)

ROME, THURSDAY.

The Giornale d'Italia writes:—The latest offensive has enabled us to obtain possession of enemy territory on a front of twenty kilometres and a depth of five kilometres. Signor Bissolati, the Civil Commissary for War, has sent from Gorizia a message of greeting to the Mayor of Rome.

The Messagero says:—The latest news adds to the importance of the Italian victory at Gorizia. The Austrian losses are extremely heavy. The enemy fled in disorder pursued by our cavalry, which has advanced several kilometres beyond Gorizia. The number of prisoners will exceed 15,000.

PREMIER'S CONGRATULATIONS TO KING VICTOR.

(REUTER'S TELEGRAM.)

ROME, THURSDAY.

As soon as Signor Boselli, the Premier, had received the news of the fall of Gorizia he sent the following telegram to King Victor Emmanuel:—

"Italian people, thrilled with joy, turns to its King, who personified the will, the glory, and the destiny of the country."

King Victor Emmanuel replied:—

"Thank you for your telegram. I share with all my heart in the national joy at the glorious success which the country owes to the unfailing wisdom and valour of its brave soldiers and their commanders.

Signor Boselli also sent congratulations to General Cadorna and the Army.

SIGNIFICANCE OF THE VICTORY.

(REUTER'S TELEGRAM.)

AMSTERDAM, THURSDAY.

The Amsterdam papers attach great importance to the fall of Gorizia.

The Handelsblad writes:—The capture of Gorizia, which for one year has resisted all the attempts of the Italians, is of very great significance, because it is the first step on the road to Trieste, the goal of the Italian irredentists. If the resistance of the Austro-Hungarian troops in the south and east begins to relax, if their strong defence on the Isonzo and the Galician and Volhynia front is beginning to weaken, then it is not impossible that this means the beginning of the end.

The Nieuwe Van Den Dag observes:—We expected the fall of Gorizia, since the heights surrounding the town were in the hands of the Italians, but that its fall should happen so suddenly was hardly to be anticipated, and we were of opinion that the Italians would have to conquer Gorizia house by house and street by street. That this has not occurred is, doubtless, a considerable success for the Italians, and makes the fall of Gorizia a more serious defeat for the Austrians than the loss of the town itself.

THE RUSSIAN SWEEP.

ADVANCES AT MANY POINTS.

IMPORTANT RAILWAY JUNCTION CAPTURED.

The Russians continue their advance at various points of their vast front. They occupied the right bank of the Koropetz, and have approached the Monsterzisk-Nijnlov railway line.

General Lechitsky's troops have captured the important railway junction of Chupline.

Yesterday's Petrograd communiqué:—

Western Front.—Our troops, which occupied the right bank of the Koropetz, continued their success and approached the Monsterzisk-Nijnlov railway line and the confluence of the Rivers Zolotaia Lipa and the Dniester.

In the region of Tysmenitza our gallant troops, closely pursuing the enemy, who is retiring in disorder, continue to advance towards the north and west, and occupied in the westerly direction the right bank of the Bystritza, also known as the Nadvorianska, on the lines formed by the towns of Navdorna and Stanislavoff. We took possession of the railway junction of Chripline. The enemy blew up all the bridges over the river.

In the region of Vorokhta and the Rivers Belytsenere, Mosche, and Sutchava our troops advanced several versts.

On the Black Sea on Wednesday an aerial fight took place between two of our hydroplanes and three of those of the enemy, in the course of which Lieutenant Garkoverko, while pursuing the enemy, turned his machine gun on him and compelled the German hydroplane to descend on the coast. We suffered no casualties or material loss.

Caucasus Front.—We repulsed Turkish attacks in the region west of Gumushkhan. Desperate fighting continues north of the line Musvh-Bitlis.

GERMAN REPORT.

Yesterday's Berlin communiqué:—

Field-Marshal von Hindenburg's Front—South of Smorgon there was vigorous firing and patrol activity. Repeated attacks were bloodily repulsed on the Struma, near Dubczyeze; on the Stokhod, near Lubiessow Berezowica Caszecne, and near Witonsez. At Czarecze, by a counter-attack, we captured two officers and 340 men. Enterprises of small enemy detachments and a surprise attempt at the Stokhod bend east of Kovel were unsuccessful.

South of Zalocze early this morning fresh fighting developed on the front of Archduke Karl Franz Joseph. South of Seleszany strong Russian attacks were partly repulsed by our counter-attacks. Here, and also south of the Dniester, new positions have been occupied by our troops according to plan.

BOTHMER'S ARMY.

The Times Petrograd correspondent states:—

It is early to speak of the complete envelopment of Bothmer's right flank, but the further extension of our advantage, in conjunction with the advance south of Brody, must intensify the enemy's anxiety for the safety of Lemberg, and counsel a further retirement. Apparently the Austrians regarded the forcing of the Sereth line by General Sakharoff as an impossible feat, but they made no allowance for the quality of the Russian soldier. The Russians bear tribute to the heroic resistance of Bothmer's Magyars.

HUNGARY AND PEACE.

REMARKABLE DECLARATIONS.

(REUTER'S TELEGRAM.)

AMSTERDAM, THURSDAY.

According to a Budapest telegram Count Michael Karolyi, leader of the new Independence Party, speaking in the Hungarian Chamber of Deputies, said it would be in the interest of peace if the Government would make a declaration with regard to the war aims of the Monarchy, and the peace conditions to be demanded. But although he wanted a speedy peace, Count Karolyi continued, he wanted a lasting peace. Referring to Rumania, he said—So long as a Hungarian breathes no one will fight unswervingly for the integrity of Hungary and the defence of Transylvania.

Count Albert Apponyi, who has accepted the programme of Count Karolyi, said he saw in the best guarantee of a lasting peace in the strengthening of the Monarchy's Alliances.

Count Tisza, Premier, said that he wished only to state that, as is known, a very small section of the Rumanian Press has done everything possible, since the outbreak of war, to involve Rumania in a war with Austria-Hungary. The Premier added that the ridiculous calumny that Count Karolyi wanted peace at any price, and a separate peace with Russia, had made a certain impression on Rumanian public opinion, and on the Entente Powers. Count Tisza emphatically declared his agreement with Count Karolyi's view, that so long as a Hungarian was left alive the Hungarian nation would not allow the slightest attack upon her integrity. He said—I do not speak here of Rumania, where to-day we confront the hostile tendency of irresponsible elements. I speak of our enemies, and in fact that we must wage war further if we wish to defend our integrity, for this war is directed against our integrity. We openly avowed that the partition of the Monarchy, and especially of the Hungarian State, is the object aimed at. So long as we are faced by such a situation we will not, in this House, speak of peace, but of victory. (Loud and prolonged applause.) Everyone knows that we did not begin this war. The whole world knows that even during the days of the declaration of war, and since then, during the course of the war, we were always ready for an honourable peace. Count Tisza concluded—The task of the present moment is to make every exertion for victory.

AMERICA AND THE LUSITANIA OUTRAGE.

(REUTER'S TELEGRAM.)

WASHINGTON, THURSDAY.

The United States Government has received the permission of the German Government to publish the last German Note on the Lusitania case, which Count Bernstorff, German Ambassador, presented to the State Department on February 16th of this year. The intention of the United States Government to publish the Note is believed to indicate the acceptance of the German standpoint as set forth in it. The date of publication has not been announced. The Note deals only with the principles involved, and does not mention the amount of indemnity Germany is to pay for the loss of American lives, or when or how the amount is to be fixed. It simply recognised liability, promises reparation by payment of an indemnity, and expresses profound regret at the deaths of Americans. It also gives assurances with regard to the future, and expresses willingness to co-operate with the United States in its efforts to secure the freedom of the seas.

ARRESTS OF IRISH MIGRATORY LABOURERS.

Mr. HUGH LAW, in the House of Commons yesterday, asked the Under-Secretary for War whether he was aware that there are still large numbers of Irish migratory labourers being arrested in the neighbourhood of Glasgow and elsewhere, and handed over to the military authority under the Military Service Act, though not ordinarily resident in Great Britain; and would he take immediate steps to prevent such arrests in future, and for the immediate release of the men arrested.

Mr. FORSTER said he had not received notice of the question, but he would certainly inquire.

Mr. LAW said if he did not hear from the hon. gentleman in the course of the evening he would raise the matter on the adjournment.

RETURNED HARVESTERS AT THE NORTH WALL.

A few Irish agricultural labourers returned to Dublin yesterday from across the Channel, where, season after season, they have been accustomed to work at the harvest. One of the harvesters, an elderly man from the West of Ireland, more in sorrow than in anger at his treatment in Great Britain, ejaculated: "God help the English harvest this year." Women and boys of about 12 to 15 years are crossing from Ireland in small lots as substitutes for the men.

A meeting of the War Council was held at 10 Downing street yesterday, and sat from 11.30 a.m. to 1.30 p.m.

HOUSE OF COMMONS—Thursday.
The SPEAKER took the chair at 2.45.
PRISONERS' LETTERS.
Lord ROBERT CECIL, replying to a ques tion by Mr. Malcolm, asking whether letters were received from British prisoners in Germany after a delay of six weeks, said that the Government had no reason to suppose that a delay of six weeks was usual. But if it were found that such was the case, the Government would have to consider the desirability of treat
ing German correspondence in the same way.
PRISONERS FOR DENMARK.
Lord ROBERT CECIL informed Mr. Malcolm
that the German Government had recently made a proposal for the transfer of a number of British prisoners to Denmark. His Majesty's Government was very grateful to the Danish Government, and the proposal was receiving consideration.
EXCHANGE OF INTERNED PRISONERS.
Lord ROBERT CECIL, replying to Com mander Wedgwood, said that the German Go vernment, having inquired whether the British Government would agree to the release of per sons interned in the respective countries, His Majesty's Government had agreed to do so under certain conditions, the chief one being that civilians of military age should be ex changed in equal numbers, in addition to the exchange of all prisoners over 45.
AFFAIRS IN PERSIA.
Lord ROBERT CECIL, replying to Sir Edwin Cornwall, said that the general condition of affairs in Persia had recently shown decided im provement. He hoped that an arrangement with regard to financial and other matters would soon be arrived at, the Persian Government
having shown every desire that the matter
should be settled.
THE HON. BERTRAND RUSSELL.
Mr. PONSONBY asked on what ground the Hon. Bertrand Russell, Lecturer on Philosophy at Harvard, had been refused a passport to enable him to return to the United States.
Lord ROBERT CECIL said that the Govern ment did not consider it was in the public interest to grant Mr. Russell a passport at the present time. No application had been re ceived by him. He saw no prospect of the Government reversing their decision. (Cheers.)
COCAINE FOR DENTISTS.
Mr. SAMUEL informed Mr. Lambert that it had been decided to grant temporary permits
to unregistered dentists to purchase cocaine
until further inquiries.
TURKISH PRISONERS.
Mr. FORSTER, replying to Sir Edwin Corn
wall, said that our forces had taken as prisoners of war 425 Turkish officers and 9,565 Turkish troops of other ranks. This did not include those recently captured in Egypt.
CLYDE DEPORTEES.
Dr. ADDISON replying to Mr. Barnes, said that the Ministry of Munitions had decided to allow certain deportees to return to the Clyde,
provided they would accept suggested employ ment, and would enter into undertakings with regard to their future conduct.
HOME-GROWN FOOD SUPPLY.
Mr. ASQUITH, replying to Captain C.
Bathurst, said that the Government had insti tuted, and were prosecuting, inquiries as to the methods which should be adopted to increase the home-grown food supply in the interest of national security after the war.
ZEPPELIN RAID.
Mr. FERENS asked whether it was the fact that in one city on the east coast, in which lives were lost early yesterday morning, there was only one gun and one poor searchlight used.
Sir JOSEPH WALTON asked whether at another point the searchlight had failed.
Mr. BAIRD, in reply, said that the Zeppelin which crossed the portion of the town referred to was fired at during the whole time it was within effective range of the air defences. The Zeppelin was flying very high. The searchlight was of the most recent and powerful type.
The anti-aircraft defences had been strengthened
within the past month, and further improvement
was being made in carrying out the general
scheme of defences as early as possible.
THE MEAT SHORTAGE.
Mr. HARCOURT, questioned by Mr. G. Faber
regarding the meat shortage in England, ex pressed doubt as to whether the prohibition of the continuance of any form of meat on certain days of the week would prove an effectual remedy. He hoped that meat prices would soon attain a lower level.
Mr. WHITEHEAD—Has the right hon. gentle man's attention been drawn to the fact that the Russian Government have also prohibited
grain being used for the production of alcohol,
and could not this be done here?
The SPEAKER—We are not talking about drink now. (Laughter.)
CONGESTED DISTRICTS BOARD'S PURCHASES OF LAND.
In reply to Mr. Cosgrave,
Mr. T. W. RUSSELL said that the Congested Districts' Board had purchased about 400 acres of untenanted land, which would be available to relieve congestion. Until they became legal owners they could not arrange for the disposal of the land, and meantime had placed grazing
stock upon it.
Sir EDWARD CARSON—Will any of this land
be reserved for returned wounded soldiers?
Mr. HAZLETON—May I ask is there any land
reserved in Ulster for the wounded soldiers?
Sir EDWARD CARSON—They have not got
it.
No replies were given.
Mr. COSGRAVE asked the Home Secretary
if he would state what steps the Congested Districts Board had taken to compulsorily ac quire six farms on the Clanricarde estate, at present occupied by planters—viz., Messrs. A.
G. Elliott, Hugh Nesbitt, James Clarke, repre sentatives of G. B. Drury, Edward Horseman, and Mrs. John Horseman; if he was aware that all the planters on this estate had voluntarily
surrendered their holdings, with the exception of the above mentioned, and if he would, in the interests of the peace of the district, dispose the Congested Districts Board to acquire these farms either compulsorily or voluntarily?
Mr. T. W. RUSSELL (who replied), said that the Congested Districts Board had made an offer in court for the purchase of the farm, on the representation of G. B. Drury, and notice to quit, which would expire on the 1st May next. That action seems to be served in Mrs.
Nesbitt. Otherwise there was nothing to add to the reply given to the hon. member's ques tion of the 3rd May last.
In reply to a further question by Mr. Cos
grave,
Mr. RUSSELL said that the Congested Dis tricts Board had agreed to the purchase of Mr.
Richard A. Cooke's tenancy interest in the farm
at Treannaneanle, on the Clanricarde estate,
subject to title, which had not yet been finally passed. Under the arrangements for purchase, Mr. Cooke had been let the grazing on the lands up to the 1st November next, and this arrangement could not now be altered.
IRISH PENSIONS COMMITTEE.
Mr. HAZLETON asked the Secretary of the Local Government Board if he would say how many local war pensions committees had been set up in Ireland, or were now being arranged
for.
Mr. JAMES HOPE (who replied) said that fourteen schemes for the establishment of local committees in Ireland had been approved by the Statutory Committee. Four of these com mittees were now discharging their duties under the Naval and Military War Pensions, etc., Act, 1915.
THE IRISH BILLS.
Mr. ASQUITH announced the Parliamentary
business for next week as follows:—Monday—
Parliament and Local Elections Bill, and Com mittee stage Small Holdings (Colonies) Bill; Tuesday—Ministry of Munitions Vote; Wednes day—Second reading Parliament and Local Elections Bill; Thursday—Dublin Reconstruction
and Housing (Ireland) Bill Com mittee stage; and the second reading of the Irish Time Bill. He hoped to make a state ment on the Registration Bill on Monday in connection with the Parliament Bill.
Mr. T. P. O'CONNOR asked would the Cor poration Bill be the first order on Friday.
Mr. ASQUITH—We hope so. That is our intention at present.
COMMITTEE OF SUPPLY.
TREASURY BILLS.
The House went into Committee of Supply on all outstanding votes—Mr. Whitley in the chair.
On a vote of £74,457 for the salaries and
expenses of the Treasury, Sir CHARLES HENRY called attention to the policy of the Treasury in issuing an un limited amount of short-dated Treasury bills
under conditions which deprived the House of Commons of control over the national finance.
He wished it to be clearly understood that he was to the fullest extent satisfied with the financial position of the country. He believed that we were in a position with the money
able as the position of our naval and military forces. (Cheers.) He had always regarded the Chancellor as a patriot rather than as a puris finance. The Chancellor held up his hands in horror at the idea of issuing Premium Bonds,
but the present policy of issuing unlimited Trea sury Bills was quite as much open to criticism.
At the present time Treasury Bills to the value of £850,000,000 had been issued. It was quite true that behind these Treasury Bills was the collateral security of the loan to our Allies and Dominions, but there was no guarantee that these loans would be repaid at the time these Treasury Bills became due. When the Treasury
Bills were sold to neutral countries no income tax was recoverable, and that the Chancellor of the Exchequer was paying on all these bills in terest equivalent to between 7 and 8 per cent.
Whether the Chancellor of the Exchequer liked it or not, another War Loan was inevitable be fore long. He moved to reduce the vote by £100.
Sir FREDERICK BANBURY agreed with the
hon. baronet that the issue of Treasury Bills to the amount of £850,000,000 placed the finances
of the country in a very serious position. He thought that the sooner the Chancellor of the Exchequer made up his mind to issue another War Loan the better. Proceeding to call at tention to the administration of the Finance Act, he contended that farmers were being charged double what they ought to pay.
Mr. J. D. FABER doubted whether the Chan cellor of the Exchequer could have started on a policy of issuing unlimited Treasury Bills if he had realised that the war was going to last
a long time. Only a few weeks before the war broke out, because he happened to say that a European war would cost a thousand million,
the late Chancellor of the Exchequer (Mr.
Lloyd George) called him a common or garden
banker. (Laughter.)
MR. M'KENNA.
Mr. McKENNA said that she Committee ought not to be left with the fact that the Treasury was confronted with the task of raising day by day an average of £5,000,000 or £35,000,000 a week—a sum which would have been regarded during the African War as in itself a large and alarming loan. It was not necessary to raise the whole of the war expenditure by loan, because, of course, they had the revenue to assist them. But the bulk of the money had to be found by borrowing. His hon. friend (Sir Charles Henry) said that they were running great risks by raising such large sums on short-dated Treasury Bills. It was rather remark able that he should have been accused of having initiated that policy. As a matter of fact, hun dreds of millions had been raised by Treasury Bills. He had only one desire, which was to do what was best for the sake of the country's credit. If he were to announce an intention of issuing a new War Loan, the War Loan Society would immediately become the subject of great speculation on the Stock Exchange. It was not his duty to give information which would be the Stock Exchange speculators. The exact position of the Treasury Bills was that in the last four months the amount had increased by £275,000,000, while the total amount of short-dated bills had decreased by £46,000,000. Dur ing the same period there had been sold £154,000,000 Exchequer Bonds, £16,000,000 War
Expenditure Certificates, and £19,000,000 War Savings Certificates. The actual revenue re ceived by the Treasury during that period was £100,000,000. From the Treasury point of view
they ought to have received in that sum £168,000,000, so that they were £68,000,000 short.
This sum would come in in time to meet the short-dated Treasury Bills which had been issued during the same period. The Treasury was doing what it could to meet the situation. The question was: could they do better? His hon.
friend (Sir Charles Henry) thought they could do better with a long term loan. The question of the issue of a loan depended upon the condi tion of the Money market. If the present state of the Money market showed signs of inflating,
or if these bills were discounted and payment
demanded, it would be necessary to issue a loan at once. What they had to face was not merely a financial problem. Day by day at the pre sent time we were consuming in goods of all kinds more than we produced. We could only make good the deficiency by obtaining supplies
from other countries which were consuming less than they produced.
A GIGANTIC TASK.
We had not only to make good our own de ficiencies, but we had to make good the de ficiencies due to the under-production of all our Allies. It was a difficult and gigantic task. We had to pay day by day sums of money abroad
which were certainly more than a million a day. He would remind the House that the Bank rate was exclusively under the control of the Bank of England, but the Governor had told him (the Chancellor) of the intention to raise the rate, and he had entirely agreed that the step was necessary to secure ourselves against inflation and against the drain on our dollar fund abroad. With regard to the rate of in terest we were paying for loans abroad, it was evident that foreign bankers would not lend us
money if we insisted on their paying us income tax, and it was one of the merits of the Trea sury Bill system that this plan could be adopted.
The Bank of England and the joint stock banks
would tell hon. members that the rate at which money could be borrowed abroad to-day was far higher than the customary rate in peace
time, and that we were fortunate in as much as we were able to borrow abroad at a cheaper rate than any other of the belligerent Powers.
He was quite unable to name any date at which they were likely to issue a loan; but whenever the opportunity was favourable, and the gene ral conditions of finances warranted it, we should do it without hesitation, and be per fectly ready to fulfil our obligations regarding the holdings of existing Stocks. It was esti mated that our total indebtedness by the 31st March next would be £3,440,000,000, and, taking out of that the sum of £800,000,000 advanced to our Allies and the Dominions, it would be
be at that date a net indebtedness of £2,640,000,000 sterling. Our total national income might probably be put at £2,000,000,000,
so that our total national indebtedness on March 31st next would just about equal one year's national income.
As the total wealth of the country had been conscientiously estimated at 15,000
millions, this meant that our national in debtedness was only one-sixth of our total
national wealth. (Cheers.)
We expected a revenue this year which would be equal to 20 per cent. of our whole debt,
and we would be able to pay out of existing taxation the interest on the debt, and a con siderable sinking fund, which would leave a large margin for reduction of taxes. (Cheers.)
He did not wish to be unduly optimistic, and would express no opinion as to when we would come to an end, but merely contented
himself with giving figures of our financial posi tion at the end of the financial year. We had every reason to be proud of the manner in which British credit had stood the strain.
(Cheers.) We had raised a gigantic revenue, borrowed gigantic sums, which we had suc ceeded in obtaining at reasonable rates for two years, and the Government had not the slightest doubt that the British public would continue to show the same readiness and wil lingness to support their country, both by pay ing taxes and lending money, so that we might continue to maintain our credit to the end of the war, no matter how long it continued. (Loud cheers.)
Mr. FRED HALL, Mr. David Mason, Sir George Younger, and Mr. Bryce continued the debate.
Sir JOSEPH WALTON said he never doubted
the country's ability to finance the war, but he wanted to see the money raised at the least possible cost to taxpayers, and he wanted to see the country in a position to enter upon a policy of trade and commercial development
to the fullest possible extent at the end of the war. It was a matter for regret that the Chancellor of the Exchequer did not issue a long-dated loan nine months ago.
Mr. SAMUEL SAMUEL hoped that the Chan cellor of the Exchequer would consult the com mercial community, instead of relying entirely upon the advice of bankers. The country would have been in a much better financial position if the Government had not attempted to control the money market by manipulating the Bank rate.
Sir J. D. REES, Mr. Hohler, and Mr. Outh
waite carried on the debate.
Sir C. HENRY withdrew his amendment, and
the vote was agreed to.
The remaining outstanding votes were agreed
to without discussion.
BILLS ADVANCED.
The Anglo-Portuguese Commercial Treaty
Bill was read a third time.
The Government of India (Amendment) Bill,
which has already passed the House of Lords,
was read a second time.
SIR F. CAWLEY.
Sir F. CAWLEY congratulated the Chancellor of the Exchequer and the country on the financial position and prospects.

(SALVAGE) BILL.
Dr. MACNAMARA moved the second reading of the Merchant Shipping (Salvage) Bill, which gives the Admiralty the right to claim salvage
in respect to any ships salved by a ship be longing to His Majesty, in all cases where these ships were equipped for salvage purposes. The bill, he said, would not apply to ordinary war ships.
The bill was read a second time.
WAR CHARITIES BILL.
In Committee on the War Charities Bill, on Clause 1, which provides for the registration of war charities,
Mr. BRACE moved an amendment providing that the section should not come into operation
until one month after the passing of the Act, or pending the consideration by the registration
authority of an application for registration
made within seven months.
The amendment was agreed to, and the clause, as amended, was added to the bill.
A number of amendments of a minor char acter having been disposed of, Mr. BRACE moved a new clause providing that where the Charity Commissioners were satisfied by the representation of the registra tion authorities that there was reasonable
ground for believing that any unregistered war
charity was not being carried on in good faith
for charitable purposes, or was not conducted substantially with the conditions imposed on re gistered charities, the Commissioners might take such steps in regard to the charity as were exercisable by them with respect to a charity
which had been removed from the register, pro vided that the Commissioners should not exercise the power of establishing a scheme for the regulation of any charity without giving
the charity a full opportunity of being heard.
The amendment was agreed to, and the bill passed through Committee.
The House adjourned at six minutes past ten o'clock.
GRAVES OF BRITISH SOLDIERS.
As some confusion may arise owing to a statement which appeared in the Press, it may be pointed out that what the French Govern ment has generously undertaken to do with re gard to the graves of British officers and men in France is to provide the land in perpetuity at the cost of the French nation. The maintenance of the burial grounds and the care of the graves
is undertaken during the war by the British Army. On the conclusion of hostilities the same work will be carried on by the Prince of Wales's National Committee for the Care of Soldiers' Graves. This Committee has not any connection with the Prince of Wales's National Relief Fund.
During the progress of the war all enquiries as to graves should be addressed to the Director of Graves Registration and Enquiries, War Office, London, S.W.
LAND SETTLEMENT FOR EX-SERVICE MEN.
Mr. Bonar Law, Colonial Secretary, and Earl Crawford, President of the Board of Agricul ture, received a deputation last evening at the Colonial Office from the Empire Land Settle ment Committee of the Royal Colonial Institute
on the subject of the settlement of ex-service men from the United Kingdom after the war on land at home and overseas. The deputation was introduced by Earl Grey, President of the Royal Colonial Institute. The speakers for the over seas settlement included Sir Rider Haggard, who has just returned from the British overseas Dominions on a mission of inquiry. The Minis ters promised a sympathetic consideration.
VOLUNTEER MUNITION
WORKERS WANTED.
In order to relieve the continuous strain of working at high pressure on regular workers and to secure the maintenance of the maximum output of munitions, the Volunteer Munitions Brigade, which is now one of the departments of the Ministry of Munitions, issues an urgent appeal for new volunteers for this form of national service. Applications should be made to the Organising Officer at 54 New Broad street, London, E.C. During the past year the brigade members have put in 275,000 shifts 'of six hours' duration.
The Turkish Legation at The Hague contra dicts the report of the alleged negotiations with the former Ambassador in Constantinople, Mr.
Morganthau, regarding the sale of Palestine to the Zionists.
While bathing in the River Yarty, at Ax
minster, Devon, yesterday, two schoolboys
named Coombes and Long were drowned.

FINANCIAL NEWS

DUBLIN STOCK EXCHANGE.

REACTION IN BREWERIES AND DISTILLERIES. TEXTILES IRREGULAR. PARENT DEF. SCARCE.

DUBLIN, THURSDAY EVENING.

This was a quiet and rather uneventful day on the Stock Exchange, and in a few directions, where prices had recently improved, sales to secure profits were either made or attempted; while, on the other hand, buyers were fairly active for other securities. Dealing was light among Banking securities. Nationals further rose ¼ to 16, and Provincial ½ to 23½, while a few Munster and Leinster Shares fell ½ to 51½. There was a reactionary tendency among Breweries and Distilleries generally quoted. Substantial sale pressure was current for Guinness Ord. Shares, which left off ½ lower at 27½. A few Dublin Distillers Pref. were sold at 67s. 6d., a decline of 2s., but the Ord. were again supported at 15s. 6d., yesterday's top price. Castlebellingham and Drogheda Shares appeared firm, without quoting. In Telegraphs, Marconi Ord. were again better at 9⅞, buyers, without any shares changing hands. Spanish and General Wireless Trusts were 3d. better at 11s. Home Rails were practically neglected, as beyond a transaction in Great Southern and Western Ord. Stock at 85½, a rise of ¼ under previous marking, no business whatever was passing. Tramways were firm. Dublin United Ord. rose 1s 9; while Provincial Debs. reported 2½ more. Dunlop issues remain firm. Parent Tyre Def. rose 4½d. to 27s. 3d., after all effected at 27s. were absorbed. The Pref. reported 16s., and Dunlop Rubber Ord. 40s. at 9l. Sawing and Drapery Shares were all neglected. Manufacturing Shares were not much changed, and dealing was practically confined to Textile issues. Bradford Dyers Ord. rose 1½d. to 27s. 7½d., and Calico Printers 2½d. to 11s. 4d.; while Coats Ord. fell ⅛ further to 6⅞, and English Sewing Cotton Ord. 1½d. to 45s. Dublin Brick and Tile Pref. realised 10s. 6d., and J. Burke Ord. were 1s. 3d. higher at 60s. British and Argentine Meat Shares realised 25s. 6d.

LONDON MONEY MARKET.

Bank Rate (changed July 13th, 1916) 6 p.c.

There was no alteration in the Bank rate yesterday morning. Money was again very unable in the Loan Market, Treasury bill purchases keeping the working margin a narrow one. Nothing was borrowed at the Bank of England, but money could not offer at 4½ p.c., and weekly fixtures were usually arranged at 5 p.c. The Discount Market was quiet, and rates were unaffected by the firmness of loan conditions, which was more than off-set by the excellent Bank return showing, the gain in the reserve being £1,436,000, and the proportion of reserve to liability 16·09 cent. as against 14·32 cent. a week ago and 14·30 14·95 a year ago.

COTTON OIL week, 10 to 18 points down. Spot, 9·10. September, 9·40.

LINSEED OIL—Refined steady; credit balances 5 points down. FALLOW steady. TIN firm. RICE steady. COPPER steady. GRAIN steady. FLOUR steady, 20 points up. LARD—Cash market strong, 50 points dearer.

CHICAGO, THURSDAY.

WHEAT opened irregular at declines ranging from 1c. to 4c. and at first May advanced on sheltering of North-West crop prospects, but declined under realising; then the fall spread all round on better crop news from Canada, favourable weather and a bearish Government report, which showed increases of export business, with bullish cables and shorts covering, helped a rally; but on realising and small scale selling of Canadian wheat led to renewed realising. Finally, however, owing to reported poor crop quality and a bullish estimate of Sir Rubert Giffen, the market closed steady and unchanged to 1c. down.

MINERS AND THE WAR.

Mr. Smillie, in his presidential address at the annual conference of the Scottish miners in Edinburgh yesterday, said that both in the field and at the face miners could claim to have done their duty. They refused to increase the old age pensions was unworthy the Government and the nation. Workers must guard against the tendency to militarise industry. Such a tendency would never submit to this. He protested against the Board of Trade's permission to Welsh owners to increase the price of coal, and challenged the owners to produce their organ ments and balance sheets. The Government's genius for organisation must be used to prepare for a better country for workers after the war.

DUBLIN POLICE COURTS.

NORTHERN DIVISION.

Before Mr. Hayes and Dr. Drew.

Two boys of fifteen, Michael Clarke, 35 Prospect avenue, Glasnevin, and John O'Cormick, 31 Upper Gloucester place, were charged with feloniously breaking into the shop, 1 Finglas road, belonging to Mr. John J. Hart, Claremont Cottage, Ballybough, and stealing therefrom a quantity of cigarettes, the value of which was 13/8. They were sentenced to three years' detention in Glencree Reformatory.

Afterwards Mr. Thomas Scott, solicitor, having been instructed by the boys' parents, applied to the magistrate to have the sentence varied.

Dr. Drew said that he was in the habit of doing so, but that the North side of Dublin was the worst served by boys of their character, hence as hardly a day that a boy was not sent to home-breaking. He looked upon the offences as outrageous, and could not alter.

At a meeting of the Secretary, Coal Consumers' Conciliation Board at Carlton Chambers, Parliament-street, announcement was received from Viscount Read-ing, Lord Chief Justice of England, Lord Chief Justice of Ireland, Lord Sumner, Lord Parmoor, Rickford
